

CHAPTER III

STANDARDS

SECTION XVII. INVESTIGATIONS

1. The purpose of this section is to establish the standards for the investigation of alleged violations of the Code of Ethics by members of the faculty.

2. The standards for the investigation of alleged violations of the Code of Ethics by members of the faculty shall be as follows:

(a) The investigation shall be conducted by a committee of three members of the faculty, one of whom shall be the chairperson.

(b) The committee shall have the authority to request and receive any information necessary to conduct its investigation.

(c) The committee shall report its findings to the faculty within a reasonable period of time.

(d) The faculty shall have the authority to take appropriate action based on the findings of the committee.

(e) The standards for the investigation of alleged violations of the Code of Ethics by members of the faculty shall be as follows:

(i) The investigation shall be conducted by a committee of three members of the faculty, one of whom shall be the chairperson.

(ii) The committee shall have the authority to request and receive any information necessary to conduct its investigation.

(iii) The committee shall report its findings to the faculty within a reasonable period of time.

(iv) The faculty shall have the authority to take appropriate action based on the findings of the committee.

3. The standards for the investigation of alleged violations of the Code of Ethics by members of the faculty shall be as follows:

(a) The investigation shall be conducted by a committee of three members of the faculty, one of whom shall be the chairperson.

(b) The committee shall have the authority to request and receive any information necessary to conduct its investigation.

(c) The committee shall report its findings to the faculty within a reasonable period of time.

(d) The faculty shall have the authority to take appropriate action based on the findings of the committee.